An open textbook, an eager student, and an understanding teacher - these are the essential ingredients for a successful science department. We, at CHS, feel that we have all three. For the past three and a half years Mrs. Sarah Atwater, who by stressing exactness and neatness, has graduated with honors many promising students into higher studies of science. Since her arrival at CHS she has stimulated interest in the field of science and greatly improved our science department by being an inspiration to faculty and students alike.

For devoted service and outstanding leadership, we the Clahischo Staff of 1965 wish to dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Sarah Y. Atwater as a token of our appreciation.

Mr. Herman Vinson, our Guidance Counselor, is another who is deserving of recognition. His contributions are quiet ones: he helps people with problems; he keeps records; he administers tests; he gives advice; he helps students complete college entrance forms. In addition to this he also teaches three courses in the business department.

In return for the priceless gifts of knowledge and inspiration he has bestowed upon us, we dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Herman Vinson. It is our way of expressing our gratitude and our sincere appreciation for all that he has done as a teacher and guidance counselor for the past nine years in CHS.

High school years bubble over with the whirl, the dash, the fun, even the tears, of a teenage world. In these blooming, miraculous years a strange new force within each of us pushes forth and opens up an exciting, enlightening new world - a world where club members rack their brains to come up with the most original party idea ever, where giving the football boys that extra little boost is worth even being drenched to the skin. All we do is project our creativeness, our care, our enthusiasm into living.

MR. JAMES O. WATERS

Principal

To the Class of '65:

Congratulations to each of you on being a member of one of the largest classes ever to graduate from Clayton High School.

Your fine attitude and spirit of cooperation will be remembered by each of us who have had a small part in helping you to assume your place in the complex world in which we live today.

As you go out on the journey through life, I hope that each of you will always remember that desire to succeed rests solely in your own hands. The assuming of responsibility is a necessity if we are to maintain the way of life which we have learned to enjoy.

I am counting on you to continue the same type of citizenship that you have practiced for the past four years, and I am wishing for each of you the opportunities that will enable you to enjoy life to the fullest.

Sincerely,

James O. Waters

Council

The Representatives and Mr. Waters, the Advisor, meet to discuss important business.

The Student Council, governing body of Clayton High, is made up of four officers and a representative from each homeroom in High School. The four officers come from the four high school grades in order of rank and are elected by the student body. The representatives are elected in the homeroom and attend all meetings of the Student Council. The Council elects the student and teacher of the month and sponsors the New Year's Dance, Spring Dance, and Spring Queen.

The Beta Club is an honor organization. It typifies the height of achievement, scholastic, and moral stand-ings. Throughout the year its main objectives are speci-fic cultural projects and the Beta Club Convention. With cooperation and effort, there are bake sales, toy drives, student directories, and dances. The goal is reached when the members attend the convention in the spring along with Beta's from all over North Carolina.

Billy Barnes, an active member, was nominated this year for Vice-President of the State Beta Club. He is the first student from C. H. S. to be nominated for a state of-fice.

The Clayton Science Club is our largest organization, showing the scientific interest our students have. The club sponsors the annual Science Fair held in the spring in which students present worthwhile projects depicting various methods of experimentation. In order to acquire membership in the club one must be enrolled in a science course and enter a project in the yearly fair.

The day dawned bright and clear and brought resting upon it the expectancy of a long awaited occasion. There was a lightness in the sound of footsteps and the usual bleary school-morning feeling was broken with radiant smiles and loud cheerful voices. Blue and white were predominant colors on walls, bulletin boards, and on students. With the sound of the morning bell, and in the last moments, the muffled hush, with a few rah-rahs heard from some students spilling their buoyant spirits, the words going through every student's mind were expressed "Today is Homecoming Day."

ing 1964

Yes this was the big occasion, a time of pride, of memories, and of happiness. As the day progressed, the tension grew. Songs were being sung and the cheers were being shouted. At the sound of the last bell, there was a series of whoops and yells. The goal posts were decorated, last minute preparations were being made for the homecoming nominees. Then finally the night arrived. . . Spir- its were at their highest ebb. As the halftime ceremonies approached, guesses were being made. Then there was the procession of nominees, a pause, a crown, roses, and a homecoming queen.

DONNA MacDOWELL - Second Runner-up

The Miss Clahischo Pageant is a highlight in the year's activities. The pageant is sponsored by the Clahischo staff. Through dedication of the contestants, work of the staff, and Mr. William's optimism the night had it's full glory. There were eight contestants who participated in talent and evening gown competition. The electric tensity of the air was felt and seen glowing in every girl's eyes. Armed with lemons, and nursing throbbing feet, the girls struggled through. All the while, back-stage, the staff was frantically wondering why all the fuses were blowing. Then after wails of "never again" . . . "I'll be glad" . . . and straightening wisps of hair, last minute instructions were given and the final phase began. Three finalists were selected, Brookie Gordon, Donna MacDowell, and Gayle Blinson. Questions were posed by the M. C. and answered, then the selection was made. Second runner-up was Donna MacDowell, first runner-up, Brookie Gordon . . . and Miss Clahischo for 1965 - Gayle Blinson. There were gasps of breath from back-stage, applause and the queen was crowned for 1965. Then tears and congratulations, and the night was over . . . until another year. Gayle reigned as queen of the dance following the pageant and serenity enhanced the faces of eight girls and one tired annual staff.

Comet girls break from the huddle.

Charlene Barbour hits a jumper from the side.

Comets and cheerleaders "whoop" it up after victory over Garner.

Coach Barbour shows interest and desire by scrimmaging with the girls. His keen ability as a coach has led his team to a successful year of wins. Losing only one player gives next year's season a favorable outlook.

Co-captains, Brookie Gordon and Sue Pulley, meet at midcourt with the officials and Wake Forest's co-captains.

Brookie Gordon hits a foul shot.

Sue Pulley releases one of her "long bombs"

Vinson scores two points for Comets.

Manager, Andy Pleasants, is always "there" when he is needed, encouraging the girls to push "a little harder."

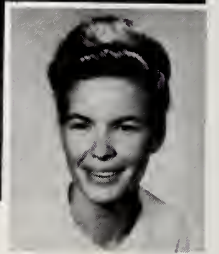

Hard work in practice pays off on game nights.

Comets wait on toes for rebound.

A cheerleader was heard to remark during the year: "It's hard to make an audience yell when it doesn't want to, but I'm often amazed at the support we do get, in spite of the celebrated Clayton Apathy." Representing the four classes, decked out in pert new uniforms, the cheerleaders are devoted to creating and leading student body support of athletics. Cheering at football, basketball games, and pep rallies, are a few occasions on which school "spirit" may be demonstrated. They were also partly responsible for the newly organized Pep Club.

Baseball 1964

Clayton's 1964 Varsity Baseball Team, although not compiling an impressive record, held its own in the school's last game. Clayton played the school's first high school baseball game under the lights on the new baseball field. Clayton defeated the Garner Rams who were winners in our division of the conference. This year's team has nine returning lettermen and a few good prospects. They are looking forward to a better record this season.

Freshman Class Officers

Kenneth Canady, President; H. M. Parrish, Vice-President;
Edith Brady, Secretary; Peggy Shehdan, Treasurer

The new-comer to high school is usually most obvious. After days of being lost and sporting a frozen smile, he gradually becomes human again. Freshmen are usually denoted by their undefatigable optimism and supply the school with bounding spirit. As a beginner one believes everything is possible, and is willing to break tradition. The freshman adds vitality and enthusiasm. The individual grows during this year toward that ultimate goal of being "a fixture around the campus." The freshman year will hold memories of giggles and events never to be told. This stumbling beginning is an occasion to be delightfully remembered.

Sophomore Class Officers

Linda Carroll, President; Johnny Hogg, Vice-President
Teresa Vinson, Secretary; Buster Benson, Treasurer

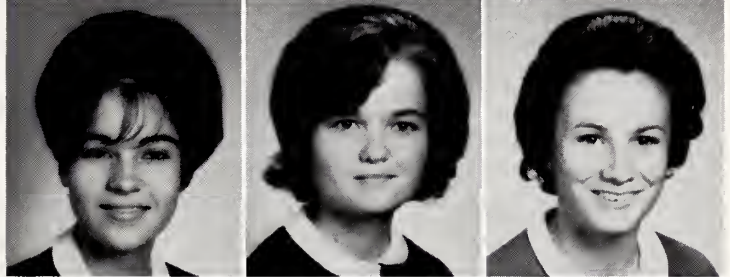

The sophomore is a more confident individual. He knows everyone and is in the swing of everything. He is ready to give advice to the "younger" people now that he is established in high school. Athletics, clubs and grades take on more importance. Classmates really begin to know each other and form their own opinions, but still, that care-free, fun-loving stage is hanging on fiercely.

JUNIORS

Junior Class Officers

Jimmy Hardee, President; Alan Weeks, Treasurer;
Hazel Parrish, Vice-President; Betty Jo Parrish, Secretary

As the junior emerges into that coveted position of being an upper-classman he takes on more responsibilities. This individual may hold his head a little higher and wear a smug expression. He knows quite a lot now! The clubs and activities are taken on with a calm sense of know-how. Scholastic standings now make a difference and the future is seen quietly emerging. S. A. T. has become a groan instead of a subject regarded as something just talked about. This year brings with it a realization . . . one more summer as a high school student.

SENIORS

Senior Class Officers

Brookie Gordon, Vice President; Signa Johnson, Secretary;
Peter Champion, President; and Linda Benson, Treasurer (not pictured)

Standing regally on that last step with a smile of satisfaction, the senior goes out alone. His emotions consist of a carefully stirred mixture of independence, self-confidence, intellect, and love of mankind, with slight touches of fear and confusion. The seniors have been leaders and have looked upon this last year with pride and a feeling of superiority. The senior year has been the height of responsibilities and reaching for the future. One has become an individual with definite thoughts; no longer one of the mass belonging to the crowd. Every phase of life takes on more meaning and the thirst for greater knowledge is seen glowing in one's eyes. The last hushed sound of the senior leaving that last step carries with it laughter, tears, heart-ache, and joy as the mass divides into many separate parts, with shared emotions.
